HIGHWAY AGENT'S REPORT.

The late spring and continuous rains delayed the work of scraping and the lack of proper equipment for the new apparatus added to the trying conditions. The main roads throughout the town were very flat and in order to keep them in proper shape must be properly crowned. This cannot be accomplished in one year's time.

The traction engine bought this year has been of great service in moving gravel, more of which has been carted on to the road this season than before in a single year. The two dumping cars are indispensable for this purpose and the underneath dump eliminates the use of the dumping board which would be necessary with the old fashioned style of cart.

The traction engine was also used to good advantage in pulling trees and moving rocks on the state road work and will be an absolute necessity should the town ever purchase and use a stone crusher.

The money used for repairs on highways and for the building of the state road was paid by the town treasurer on an order from the selectmen, each man signing a receipt for his money. My own wages were fixed by the selectmen at $3.00 per day.

The tools turned over to me by my predecessor were completely worn out and worthless, necessitating the purchase of new ones. Teams cost 50 cents per day more this year than last.

A new cement bridge or culvert was put in at the outlet of the lake, the first that has ever been built in town. The design was of my own planning. There is no wood work of any part in this bridge and consequently it is a permanent structure eliminating further expense to maintain. The cost of forms, building dam, material and mason was $164.96. Being less than ten feet long, it would properly be classed as a culvert. It has the advantage of doing away with all noise in crossing it, does away with all expense hereafter and will safely carry a load of 20 tons. In my opinion more of these cement bridges can be built to advantage in the town. about 3' span 3' deep

The wooden bridge on Blackberry Lane and the one north of Mrs. Amory's farmhouse were rebuilt with wood. The culvert on Blackberry Lane, the iron bridge west of the Golf Grounds, the iron bridge east of Bond's Corner on the Peterborough road, the iron bridge near No. 3 schoolhouse, the two bridges on the Charcoal Road and the bridge at the Chesham Corner were all newly planked this summer.

The ledge on the curve at Peanut rock was blown out and a ditch made the entire length of it on the upper side. This was done by use of the compressed air machine, the same as on the state road work. This narrow and dangerous curve is now widened to the full 24 feet.

The state road was laid out by the state engineer and built by me under signed plans and specifications from him. The road was built according and graded to the inch as specified on stakes. The specification called for an earth road 21 feet wide with crown 1 inch to the foot. All culverts to be 1 foot below finished road bed at upper end, with concrete headers. From station 14x05 to station 17x50, a distance of 445 feet, 10 inches of stone was laid 21 feet wide. Between station 17 and 21 the knoll was cut off as was at station 10 to 13. The hill below ledge at No. 6 was cut or filled according to stakes, from 10 inches to 2 feet. Between station 25x50 to 27x75, a distance of 225 feet, a V drain was put in on the hill. This drain was 15 feet wide, 18 inches deep at center and 12 inches at the outside. The ledge was blown out at No. 6 hill, the drilling being by compressed air. Over 300 yards of rock was blown out and hauled away. The drilling by this process being done at one-half the cost of the old method. The holes drilled were 5 and 6 feet deep. This rock was very hard, known as blue trap rock, and very seamy. With the rose point drill used in this method, seams do not bother but in hand drilling it is impossible to drill deep in such rock.

The curve at No. 2 farm was straightened and the large rock blown. This curve called for 216 feet of stone fill from 3 to 6 feet. There were four 12 inch steel culverts, one 14 inch and one 24 inch steel culverts, with cement headers, installed. This is the most difficult state road yet built in Dublin. Mr. Winslow, the government expert, whose services were obtained through the courtesy of Secretary MacVeagh, states that this road was built at much less cost than our other state roads considering the amount of road and the expensive work done. Four thousand feet of road was built under me.

The cost of the compressed air machine was not contract work. Mr. Davis was paid $10.00 per day for himself and machine, he standing all repairs and breakdowns. His head driller was paid $2.50, second driller $2.25, the blacksmith $2.50 and his helper $2.00. They were paid only for the exact hours they worked. 400 pounds of dynamite was used.

SCHOOL REPORT.

REPORT OF THE SCHOOL BOARD OF THE TOWN OF DUBLIN.

We respectfully submit to the Dublin School District the ninety-first annual report of our schools.

No. 1 has had 37 weeks of school during the year and No. 2, 41. This was done in order to make good the time lost last year through sickness. It was thought that better results could be obtained at No. 1 by dividing the school. Accordingly, a teacher was secured and grades 2 and 4 were removed to the room in the Town Hall under Miss Amy B. Sargent of Rindge. As a result, much more individual work is possible. The fact that No. 5 has had only 33 weeks is due to the inability to procure a teacher in season to begin school earlier. The sanitary arrangements at No. 5 have been improved, and the woodshed capacity increased. A change of teachers was made at this school for the fall term, and Miss Helen K. Alexander, a Normal School graduate with four years' experience, was secured for the year. The resignation of Miss Pollock at No. 2 made necessary a change of teachers there, and Miss Nettie Congdon, a graduate of the Fitchburg Normal School, was obtained for the year. At No. 1 and No. 3 we have been able to continue with the same able teachers making for them four and three years respectively in the same schools.

The music and drawing of the present school year is under the direction of Miss Gertrude Van Dommele of Hillsboro, who was engaged to take the place of the former supervisor of music, Miss Clark.

At the meeting of the Supervisory District at Keene, June 22, Winchester was admitted to the district with a corresponding reduction of time and salary for the towns of the district as composed last year. Mr. H. H. Pratt was re-elected as superintendent, but later resigned. After several meetings of the district, Mr. Andrew P. Averill of Edgartown, Mass., was elected and the position accepted. Mr. Averill is a man of large experience both as a teacher and a superintendent, and we note with pleasure the manner in which he has taken hold of the work in the schools.

We submit the following estimate of money which will be required by law for the payment of statutory obligations of the district.

Required by the State	$2422.50
For High School tuitions	250.00

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS.

TO THE BOARD OF EDUCATION, DUBLIN, N. H.

I hereby submit for your consideration my first annual report of the public schools of this town.

Upon assuming the duties of supervision in Dublin on the first of last September, I found in charge of the schools a body of teachers of good capacity and intelligence, who are discharging their duties with great diligence and fidelity, and who are actuated by the single purpose of advancing the educational welfare of their pupils.

I plan no revolutionary changes in the school work, but by a natural extension in one direction and a necessary elimination in another, by the steady co-operation of teacher and superintendent in increasing the efficiency of the work, I hope to bring about a gradual improvement of the work. For let no one think that a perfect adaptation of school work to the children's needs has yet been made in any school system. There has been a gradual and continued improvement during the last 25 years, and the next twenty-five years will undoubtedly be marked by as great an advance.

It is not many years since the schoolroom instruction appealed almost entirely to the memory. History, geography, and grammar were memorized by the pupils and problems in arithmetic were solved by the application of rules previously committed to memory. Reading lessons were regarded merely as exercises in pronouncing words. Little attempt was made to teach children to do independent thinking and reasoning.

There is much of the same kind of teaching to-day. Better ways are known, but it is hard to break away from previous practices. Moreover, the child who glibly recites a memorized lesson appears to make a better recitation than he who more haltingly expresses his original thoughts and conclusions.

But on the whole, a better spirit pervades the work of to-day. The child's interest in the work is aroused and more pleasure attends the doing of it. The reading of to-day, without neglecting oral expression, has mainly in view the appreciation of the great thoughts of our best writers, the inculcation of the reading habit, and a development of a love for the best in literature. The mechanics of reading is now mastered by the end of the fourth or fifth year.

In arithmetic, many obsolete forms and subjects have been eliminated, and the pupil's energy is directed to the automatic mastery of the fundamentals and to skill in applying them to common business affairs.

In grammar, meaningless formalism is eliminated, and the simpler elements of the sentence only are taught.

The work in geography is no longer a study of dots and lines on a map or an "unrelated jargon of the names of capitals, capes or peninsulas," but it relates surface and climate to production, chief cities to their advantages of position, and occupation to natural resources.

In all instruction, we are not unmindful of the fact that it is the business of the school to teach children rather than subjects, and that the best product of the teacher's art is a strong, noble character dominated by the spirit of service.

The school in the village was found to be too large for one teacher because of the number of classes. It was, therefore, divided by removing grades two and four to a room in the town hall. Miss Amy B. Sargent of Rindge was engaged to teach the new school. As a result of the change, a decided improvement in the progress of the pupils in both schools has been noted.

In the near future, I hope to see introduced into all the schools a course in handwork and manual training, including in the upper grades, cooking and sewing for the girls, and woodwork for the boys. Handwork is a valuable factor in the training of children. It rounds out a child's education by teaching the more facile use of the hand, and reacts favorably upon other lines of school work.

Respectfully submitted,

ANDREW P. AVERILL.
